Grammar and Writing Bell-ringer Exercise: Paddington Bear

There are five mistakes in the paragraph below. Find them and correct them. Look for mistakes in grammar, spelling, and punctuation.

Paddington Bear, the lovable character created by author Michael Bond, is a charming bear from peru who loves marmalade sandwiches and always wear a blue coat and a red hat. After he was found at Paddington Station in London with a note saying "Please look after this bear," Paddington was adopted by the Brown family. His kind and polite nature, along with his tendency to find himself in comical situations, has made him popular with readers of all ages. His adventures often start when he tries to correct what he sees as a unfair situation. However he usually ends up causing some kind of good-natured trouble instead. In the end, everything is resolved and everyone has a good laugh. Whether hes causing chaos at home or learning more about his adopted country, Paddington's tales are both heartwarming and humorous.
